

Redbubble Limited – Share Trading Policy

1 What is the purpose of this policy?

This policy does two things:

- (a) it sets out Redbubble's trading policy on buying and selling securities in Redbubble Limited (Redbubble) including shares, options and derivatives (Securities); and
- (b) it summarises the law relating to insider trading set out in the Corporations Act 2001. The Corporations Act applies to Securities in Redbubble Limited even if you are not based in Australia, by virtue of Redbubble being an Australian company.

2 Who and What does this policy apply to?

This policy applies to all directors, officers, senior management and other employees of Redbubble (you). It is important to remember that although this policy only applies to the persons specified above, the insider trading prohibitions in the Corporations Act extend to all persons described in section 4 below (for example members of your family).

Note that share options and restricted stock units / performance rights are not tradeable under the respective plan rules. If you attempt to trade those rights without consent that will breach the plan rules and the attempted trade will not be valid. However the trading restrictions / insider trading principles in this policy also apply to any attempted trading of those rights (and references to 'Securities' or "shares" in this policy is to be interpreted to include options / restricted stock units / performance rights).

3 Further advice

If you have any questions relating to the insider trading summary below or about this policy generally, please contact the General Counsel or Company Secretary. You may wish to seek your own professional legal advice before dealing in Redbubble shares.

4 Insider trading prohibitions in the Corporations Act

(a) The insider trading prohibitions

If you have "Inside Information" (as defined in paragraph 4(b) below) relating to Redbubble (or any company in the Redbubble Group) it is illegal for you to:

- (i) deal in (that is, apply for, acquire or dispose of) Redbubble shares or enter into an agreement to do so; or
- (ii) procure another person to apply for, acquire or dispose of Redbubble shares or enter into an agreement to do so; or
- (iii) directly or indirectly communicate, or cause to be communicated, that information to any other person if you know, or ought reasonably to know, that the person would or would be likely to use the information to engage in the activities specified in paragraphs 4(a)(i) or (ii) above.

The prohibitions also apply to the shares/interests in shares of other entities if you possess Inside Information about those entities.

It does not matter how or in what capacity you become aware of the Inside Information. It does not have to be obtained from Redbubble to constitute Inside Information.

You cannot avoid the insider trading prohibition by arranging for a member of your family or a friend to deal in Redbubble shares nor may you give “tips” concerning Inside Information relating to Redbubble to others, including customers.

(b) What is Inside Information?

Inside Information is information relating to Redbubble which is not generally available but, if the information were generally available, would be likely to have a material effect on the price or value of Redbubble Securities. Inside Information can include matters of speculation or supposition and matters relating to intentions or likely intentions of a person.

Information is regarded as being likely to have a material effect if it would, or would be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities or other traded financial products in deciding whether or not to deal in Redbubble shares.

Examples of Inside Information could be:

- (i) the financial performance of Redbubble against its budget;
- (ii) changes in Redbubble’s actual or anticipated financial condition or business performance;
- (iii) proposals to raise additional equity or borrowings;
- (iv) material acquisitions or sales of assets by Redbubble;
- (v) major new initiatives; or
- (vi) a material claim against Redbubble or other unexpected liability.

(c) When is information generally available?

Information is generally available if:

- (i) it consists of readily observable matter or deductions;
- (ii) it has been brought to the attention of investors through an announcement to the ASX or otherwise similarly brought to the attention of investors who commonly invest in securities, and a reasonable period has elapsed since it was announced or brought to investors’ attention; or
- (iii) it consists of deductions, conclusions or inferences made or drawn from information referred to in paragraphs (i) or (ii) above.

Examples of possible readily observable matters are:

- (i) a change in legislation which will affect Redbubble’s ability to make certain types of investments; or
- (ii) a severe downturn in global securities markets.

(d) What are the consequences if you breach the insider trading prohibitions?

Breach of the insider trading laws may subject you to:

- (i) criminal liability - penalties include heavy fines and imprisonment;
- (ii) civil liability - you can be sued by another party or Redbubble for any loss suffered as a result of illegal trading activities; and

- (iii) civil penalty provisions - the Australian Securities and Investments Commission may seek civil penalties against you and may even seek a court order that you be disqualified from managing a corporation.

Breach of the law or this trading policy or both will also be regarded by Redbubble as serious misconduct which may lead to disciplinary action or dismissal.

5 Redbubble's Trading Policy

(a) Closed Periods

In addition to the insider trading prohibitions summarised above (i.e. not to deal in Securities when in possession of Inside Information), you must also not deal in Redbubble shares during the following Closed Periods in each year:

- (i) for so long as Redbubble is subject to an obligation to release quarterly results to the market under the ASX Listing Rules¹:
 - a. from 1st January until the start of the second trading day after Redbubble's second quarter results are lodged with the ASX;
 - b. from 1st April until the start of the second trading day after Redbubble's third quarter results are lodged with the ASX;
 - c. from 1st July until the start of the second trading day after Redbubble's fourth quarter results are lodged with the ASX; and
 - d. from 1st October until the start of the second trading day after Redbubble's first quarter results are lodged with the ASX;
- (ii) from the open of the trading day on the Thursday (Australian time) before the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in the United States, until the second trading day after Redbubble's Thanksgiving weekend sales results are lodged with the ASX.
- (iii) any extension to a period referred to above, or any additional period, as determined by the Board in its absolute discretion and subject to any applicable law.

(b) Exceptional circumstances

You may request, and the Notification Officer may give, prior confirmation for you to:

- (i) deal in Redbubble shares during a Closed Period; or
- (ii) dispose of Redbubble shares even if otherwise prohibited under paragraph 5(a),

if there are exceptional circumstances, unless this would breach the insider trading prohibitions as set out in paragraph 4 above.

Exceptional circumstances may include:

- severe financial hardship, for example, a pressing financial commitment that cannot be satisfied otherwise than by selling the relevant shares;
- requirements under a court order or court enforceable undertakings or other legal or regulatory requirements; and/or

¹ For the avoidance of doubt the Closed Periods include the first day of the relevant period (if such day is a trading day).

- other exceptional circumstances as determined by the Chairman (or Chief Executive Officer where the Chairman is involved).

If the Notification Officer has any doubt in making a determination of exceptional circumstances, they should exercise the discretion with caution.

If you receive confirmation that you may deal in Redbubble shares under this paragraph 5(b) the requirements of paragraphs 5(c), (d) and (e) must be complied with regard to prior notification, confirmation and notification of dealing.

(c) Prior notification

This paragraph 5(c) and paragraphs 5(d) and (e) apply to each Redbubble director, Senior Leadership Team member, Finance team member and the Company Secretary. - (ii) The notification must state that the proposed dealing in Redbubble shares is not as a result of access to, nor the receipt of, Inside Information.

Notification of any dealing in Redbubble shares under this paragraph and the completion of Part B of the Notification Form to Deal in Redbubble shares does not constitute approval of the dealing by or on behalf of Redbubble.

(d) Confirmation

A confirmation contemplated in paragraph 5(c)(ii) above:

- (i) expires 10 business days from the date it is issued, unless it specifies a different expiry date; and
- (ii) confirms that the proposed dealing is within the terms of this policy but does not otherwise constitute approval or endorsement by Redbubble or the Notification Officer for the proposed dealing.

In addition to providing advance notice under paragraph 5(b), you must confirm in writing to the relevant Notification Officer when the dealing in Redbubble shares has occurred, the number of Securities affected and the relevant parties to the dealing.

(f) Extension of this policy

The Board of Directors may also from time to time extend this trading policy by specifying that Redbubble directors or staff are also restricted from dealing in the shares or other securities of other specified companies with which Redbubble may have a close relationship.
