Dear Sir/Madam,

Amended Share Trading Policy – Redbubble Limited (ASX:RBL)

In accordance with Listing Rule 12.10, attached is Redbubble Limited's amended Share Trading Policy, which takes effect from 10 February 2021.

Yours faithfully,

Paul Gordon

Paul Gordon
Company Secretary
Redbubble Limited

Redbubble Share Trading Policy

In this Policy, “Redbubble Group” means Redbubble Limited (ACN 119 200 592) and its subsidiary companies.

1 What is the purpose of this policy?

This policy:

- (a) sets out Redbubble Group’s trading policy on buying and selling securities in Redbubble Limited (Redbubble) including shares, options and derivatives (Securities); and
- (b) summarises the law relating to insider trading set out in the Corporations Act 2001. The Corporations Act applies to Securities in Redbubble even if you are not based in Australia, by virtue of Redbubble being an Australian company.

2 Who and what does this policy apply to?

This policy applies to all directors, officers, senior management and other employees of any Redbubble Group company (you). It is important to remember that although this policy only applies to the persons specified above, the insider trading prohibitions in the Corporations Act extend to all persons described in section 4 below (for example members of your family).

Note that share options and restricted stock units / performance rights are not tradeable under the respective plan rules. If you attempt to trade those rights without consent that will breach the plan rules and the attempted trade will not be valid. However the trading restrictions / insider trading principles in this policy also apply to any attempted trading of those rights (and references to ‘Securities’ or “shares” in this policy is to be interpreted to include options / restricted stock units / performance rights).

3 Further advice

If you have any questions relating to the insider trading summary below or about this policy generally, please contact the Chief Legal Counsel and/or Company Secretary. You may wish to seek your own professional legal advice before dealing in Redbubble shares.

4 Insider trading prohibitions in the Corporations Act

(a) The insider trading prohibitions

If you have “Inside Information” (as defined in paragraph 4(b) below) relating to any company in the Redbubble Group) it is illegal for you to:

- (i) deal in (that is, apply for, acquire or dispose of) Redbubble shares or enter into an agreement to do so; or
- (ii) procure another person to apply for, acquire or dispose of Redbubble shares or enter into an agreement to do so; or
- (iii) directly or indirectly communicate, or cause to be communicated, that information to any other person if you know, or ought reasonably to know, that the person would or would be likely to use the information to engage in the activities specified in paragraphs 4(a)(i) or (ii) above.

The prohibitions also apply to the shares/interests in shares of other entities if you possess Inside Information about those entities.

It does not matter how or in what capacity you become aware of the Inside Information. It does not have to be obtained from any Redbubble Group company to constitute Inside Information.

You cannot avoid the insider trading prohibition by arranging for a member of your family or a friend to deal in Redbubble shares nor may you give “tips” concerning Inside Information relating to any Redbubble Group company to others, including customers.

(b) What is Inside Information?

Inside Information is information relating to any Redbubble Group company which is not generally available but, if the information were generally available, would be likely to have a material effect on the price or value of Redbubble Securities. Inside Information can include matters of speculation or supposition and matters relating to intentions or likely intentions of a person.

Information is regarded as being likely to have a material effect if it would, or would be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities or other traded financial products in deciding whether or not to deal in Redbubble shares.

Examples of Inside Information could be:

- (i) the financial performance of Redbubble Group against its budget;
- (ii) changes in Redbubble Group’s actual or anticipated financial condition or business performance;
- (iii) proposals to raise additional equity or borrowings;
- (iv) material acquisitions or sales of assets by Redbubble;
- (v) major new initiatives; or
- (vi) a material claim against any Redbubble Group company or other unexpected liability.

(c) When is information generally available?

Information is generally available if:

- (i) it consists of readily observable matter or deductions;
- (ii) it has been brought to the attention of investors through an announcement to the ASX or otherwise similarly brought to the attention of investors who commonly invest in securities, and a reasonable period has elapsed since it was announced or brought to investors’ attention; or
- (iii) it consists of deductions, conclusions or inferences made or drawn from information referred to in paragraphs (i) or (ii) above.

Examples of possible readily observable matters are:

- (i) a change in legislation which will affect any Redbubble Group company’s ability to make certain types of investments; or
- (ii) a severe downturn in global securities markets.

(d) What are the consequences if you breach the insider trading prohibitions?

Breach of the insider trading laws may subject you to:

- (i) criminal liability - penalties include heavy fines and imprisonment;
- (ii) civil liability - you can be sued by another party or Redbubble for any loss suffered as a result of illegal trading activities; and
- (iii) civil penalty provisions - the Australian Securities and Investments Commission may seek civil penalties against you and may even seek a court order that you be disqualified from managing a corporation.

Breach of the law or this trading policy or both will also be regarded as serious misconduct which may lead to disciplinary action or dismissal.

5 Redbubble Group's Trading Policy

For the avoidance of doubt, the Closed Periods referred to above include the first day of the relevant period (if such day is a trading day).

(b) Exceptional circumstances

You may request, and the Notification Officer may give, prior confirmation for you to:

- (i) deal in Securities during a Closed Period; or
- (ii) dispose of Securities even if otherwise prohibited under paragraph 5(a),

if there are exceptional circumstances, unless this would breach the insider trading prohibitions as set out in paragraph 4 above.

Exceptional circumstances may include:

- severe financial hardship, for example, a pressing financial commitment that cannot be satisfied otherwise than by selling the relevant shares;
- requirements under a court order or court enforceable undertakings or other legal or regulatory requirements; and/or
- other exceptional circumstances as determined by the Chairman (or Chief Executive Officer where the Chairman is involved).

If the Notification Officer has any doubt in making a determination of exceptional circumstances, they should exercise the discretion with caution.

If you receive confirmation that you may deal in Redbubble shares under this paragraph 5(b) the requirements of paragraphs 5(c), (d) and (e) must be complied with regard to prior notification, confirmation and notification of dealing.

(c) Prior notification

This paragraph 5(c) and paragraphs 5(d) and (e) apply to each director of an Redbubble Group company, Executive Team member, Finance team member and the Company Secretary. - b. receive confirmation in the form of Part B of Schedule 1, signed by the Notification Officer(s) in their discretion, to allow the proposed dealing in Redbubble shares to proceed.

(ii) The notification must state that the proposed dealing in Redbubble shares is not as a result of access to, nor the receipt of, Inside Information.

Notification of any dealing in Redbubble shares under this paragraph and the completion of Part B of the Notification Form to Deal in Redbubble shares does not constitute approval of the dealing by or on behalf of Redbubble.

(d) Confirmation

A confirmation contemplated in paragraph 5(c)(ii) above:

- (i) expires 20 business days from the date it is issued, unless it specifies a different expiry date; and
- (ii) confirms that the proposed dealing is within the terms of this policy but does not otherwise constitute approval or endorsement by Redbubble or the Notification Officer for the proposed dealing.

(e) Notification of the dealing

In addition to providing advance notice under paragraph 5(b), you must confirm in writing to the relevant Notification Officer when the dealing in Redbubble shares has occurred, the number of Securities affected and the relevant parties to the dealing.
